

About the Association

The Maine Chiefs of Police Association (MCOPA) was established in 1952. The MCOPA represents over 350 of Maine's past and present leaders in law enforcement.

From draft policy creation to legislative action the association is an active participant in Maine Government.

The MCOPA publishes a quarterly newsletter online to all members with law updates, association news, training, meetings and much more.

The annual winter meeting features a vendor show with over fifty vendors each year. Each year the spaces fill early as those who participate return.

The MCOPA is affiliated with the New England Police Association of Chiefs of Police and the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

Maine's Largest Law Enforcement Vendor Show

Over fifty vendors will display their products this February during the winter meeting and training conference.

Held adjacent to Maine's largest city and convenient to the Portland International Jetport the location is ideal for a winter meeting.

Attendees can enjoy shopping at the Maine Mall or even winter sports just miles from the convention.

This show is the single largest of its kind for law enforcement in Maine.

Sign up early to reserve your ticket to display products at our annual vendor show.
